TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Some of the Arrangements Already Made—Nov. 21-25.

The meeting of the Committee of Arrangements for the County Teachers' Institute was held in County Superintendent Roth's office Saturday afternoon. Among the day instructors already engaged are the following: Hon. N. C. Schaeffer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pa.; Hon. Henry R. Pattengill, ex-Commissioner of Education, Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. Anna E. Friedman, Buffalo, N. Y.; Prof. Francis H. Green, West Chester, Pa.; Miss Lillian Johnson, Kutztown, Pa.; Prof. Jerry March, Philadelphia, Pa.

Evening entertainments: Rev. Stanley L. Krebs, Dr. Frank Dixon, The Barrie Gill Combination, Carmen's Italian Boys and Elbert Foland, Humorist, The Harmony Lady Quartette Company.

The institute will be held during the week of Thanksgiving, Nov. 21 to 25, and the sessions will be held in Xavier Hall.

The members of the Executive Committee, including Superintendent Roth, are as follows: Clem. A. Hartman of Franklin, J. Blain Bushey of Menallen, Howard M. Gardner of Latimore, Martin L. Slothour of Hamilton, Harvey W. Schwartz of Union, Arte F. Wildasin of Germany, Miss Sabina Marshall of Hamilton, Miss Mary A. Waltman of Mountjoy, Miss Gail R. Bell of Straban, Miss Lizzie B. Rummel of Gettysburg.

ABOUT TOWN.

Clarence, the eight-year-old son of Wm. D. Epley, of York street, fell from a fence recently and broke the large bone of the right arm at the wrist.

Pickpockets relieved A. F. Harnish of a pocketbook containing $34 at the W. M. R. R. station Monday evening. R. K. Major has bought the Philip Houck milk route and will take possession Oct. 1st.

C. T. Lower tells us that he has sold 18 car-loads of feeding cattle, or about 400 head.

Among the exhibitors at the Hanover Fair this week were these from Adams County: The Spangler Music House, Gettysburg, pianos and organs; E. C. Bond & Co., New Oxford, buggies, surreys, runabouts, etc.; T. S. Blocher, Littlestown, display of buggies, surreys, etc.

The cool nights remind us that summer is passing. The Trolley Co. has somewhat improved the road-way between its tracts with a coating of lime-stone.

It is time to be getting the stoves and heating plants in good order.

C. J. Boyer, of Harrisburg, representing an extensive shirt house of N. Y. City, has taken charge of shirt factory here. Former Manager Deardorff will continue with new manager.

The Seminary authorities are having a cement pavement laid on Springs avenue from the top of the hill to the foot, where the Seminary land ends.

The County Commissioners have decided to place linoleum in the aisles of the Court-room, which will be an improvement.

Distinguished Visitors.

Gettysburg had a distinguished visitor over Sunday in the person of William Waldorf Astor, formerly of New York, now of London. He was accompanied by L. T. Paul and Jas. W. Paul, Jr., of Philadelphia, and by his valet. The party came in a special train from New York on Saturday evening and remained until Monday morning, stopping at the Eagle.

Also at the Eagle over Sunday were the following prominent G. A. R. men: Robert M. Green and John L. Grim, of Philadelphia, W. B. Van Amringe, of Boston, and H. B. Black, of Chester.

Will Rebuild Line.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the United Telephone and Telegraph Company at Harrisburg last Wednesday an appropriation was made to meet the necessary expenses which will be incurred in rebuilding the entire line in Littlestown and from Gettysburg to Littlestown. Thomas Nevitt, assistant chief engineer for the company, has been engaged in making all necessary arrangements for the immediate rebuilding of the line, which is to be completed by October 1.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

HELD AT BENDERSVILLE TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Various Addresses and by Whom Made—Statistics, Reports, Etc.

The most successful annual convention of the Adams County Sunday School Association was held in the Methodist Church, Bendersville, Tuesday and Wednesday. The weather was very unfavorable but it could not dampen the spirits of the people. All five sessions were full of new and helpful thoughts and inspiration and the attendance was very good throughout. The people welcomed us heartily to their community and homes. Several of the speakers were unable to be present which was deeply regretted, because some very good talks were thereby missed. The county was fortunate this year in securing two good state workers, W. G. Landis, our new Field Secretary, and William Stahl, Field Worker, who contributed much to the success of the convention. Mr. Landis is also a talented singer, proving the fact in leading the music which interspersed the programs.

The convention opened Tuesday at 2 p. m. with song and devotional service led by Rev. H. W. Bender, New Chester, President of the association. After opening words by the President and suggestions to the delegates by Mr. Stahl, "Gleanings From the Summer's Work," were given by Mr. S. E. Henry, Field Worker in the county. Then followed "The Potential Position of the Sunday School with Reference to the Home, Community and Church," given respectively by Mr. Landis, Rev. Wm. L. Leisher, Idaville, and Mr. Stahl. The delegates were then enrolled, forty schools out of eighty-seven being represented. The total enrollment was 66, composed of pastors, superintendents, delegates and state workers. The total Sunday school membership of the county is 10,031.

At 7.30 p. m. Rev. S. A. Diehl, of Bendersville, led the devotional service. The address of welcome was to have been given by Rev. Amos R. Bruce, pastor of the Methodist Church, but he was unable to be present. In his stead Rev. S. A. Diehl extended a very cordial welcome which was responded to by Rev. C. P. Bastian, of Littlestown. Mr. Landis then sang a solo, after which Mr. Stahl delivered an address, "My Trip to the Holy Land Attending the World's Sunday School Convention at Jerusalem." After the offering the convention adjourned.

Wednesday, 8.45 a. m.—Devotional then transacted. Reports of officers, service concluded general business was department superintendents, district presidents and delegates were heard, followed by election of officers. The nominating committee, Mr. E. P. Miller, Abbottstown, chairman, nominated one candidate for each office and these were elected as follows: Pres., Rev. C. P. Bastian, Littlestown; V. Pres., Rev. T. C. Hesson, Arendtsville; Rec. Sec., Mrs. Grant Good, Bendersville; Cor. Sec., Miss Louise Stahl, Gettysburg; Treas., H. T. Weaver, Gettysburg. The Executive Committee is composed of these officers and the following department superintendents and district presidents: Home Dept., Miss Eva Cordelia Stock, New Oxford; Normal Dept., Clayton Yohe, Abbottstown; Primary Dept., Mrs. B. Frank Gise, New Oxford. Districts: Gettysburg, Harry Montfort, Gettysburg; Fairfield, J. A. Kime, Fairfield; Littlestown, D. C. Rudisill, Gettysburg; New Oxford, John Jacobs, East Berlin; York Springs, M. O. Brane, Idaville; Arendtsville, J. F. Bushey, Biglerville.

Rev. C. P. Bastian was elected a delegate to the State Sunday School convention to be held in Pittsburg, Oct. 12-14.

A constitution, which was framed by the Executive Committee, was presented and unanimously adopted as read.

Mr. Landis then explained and illustrated the Normal Department by converting the convention into a normal class and teaching the first three lessons in the Normal Text Book.

At 1.30 p. m. the session was opened with a song service. A conference on Primary Work, in charge of the Primary Superintendents, was led by Mrs. Gise, New Oxford. Addresses were given by Rev. D. T. Koser of Arendtsville, Mr. Landis and Mr. Stahl. After an open conference on this subject Rev. Bender introduced U. U. Mercer, Esq., of Mechanicsburg,

President Cumberland County S. S. Association, who extended greetings from his county. Mr. Stahl explained the Home Department and then led an open conference. This was followed by an address "How to Interest the Men in the Work of the Sunday School," by Rev. S. L. Rice of Gettysburg.

The evening meeting was opened at 7.30 with a song and devotional service led by Rev. Leisher, followed by the reading of the minutes of the convention by the Secretary and the reports of committees.

Mr. Mercer delivered an address on "Our Responsibility," after which Mr. Landis sang another beautiful solo. The last address of the convention, "The Main Issue in Life," was forcibly given by Mr. Landis.

The offering was then lifted and after singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" the convention closed with the benediction by Rev. Bender.

Upper Bermudian Church, near Idaville, Rev. Leisher pastor, extended an invitation to the convention to hold its next annual meeting there, which invitation was accepted.

The treasury is in better condition now than in former years, but it must still continue to improve. $56.86 was received from 33 schools, including offerings amounting to $7.18. $20.00 is our apportionment to the State. All schools that have not sent in their contributions are asked to send them to the Treasurer as soon as possible, so that the county can meet its apportionment and also meet all its expenses.

SECRETARY.

THE HANOVER FAIR.

Many Interesting Races—Big Crowd of People.

Ten thousand was an estimate of the number of visitors to the Hanover Fair Friday, made by an official.

Games, side-shows and the various other amusements appeared to enjoy a large business. Of the former there was more than the usual number in operation, some of them being styled "the real thing." Several of the gamblers were dismissed from the grounds for carrying on a business considered by the authorities to be too close to the "hold-up," type.

Politicians were conspicuous in all sections of the fair grounds. Both parties were represented by almost equal numbers.

The exhibits as a rule were first-class, somewhat better than usual.

The racing was of unusual interest, the one which attracted most attention being the free-for-all on Friday, won by Plato in three straight heats.

Gettysburg horses were in the following races:

First race—2.15 class pacing, purse $400.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Notes From Various Sections of the County and Country.

Jerome Hemler, of McSherrystown, has resigned as clerk at Hotel O'Bold, Hanover, to accept a position as clerk in the grocery store of A. H. Melhorn, corner of the Square and Carlisle street, made vacant by the resignation of Charles L. Myers, who is now employed at the Hanover Shoe Factory.

A charter was granted last Monday at Harrisburg for the American Leaf Tobacco Company, of McSherrystown. Capital, $50,000.

George W. Koch, who left his birthplace, Dillsburg, this county, over 50 years ago, for New York, and where, as a flour merchant, he accumulated a million dollar fortune, died Saturday in Dillsburg, where he had lived for the past year, aged 75 years.

Charles W. Kuhn, a former citizen of New Oxford, for a number of years residing at Mt. Holly, N. J., where he has been employed in a large shoe factory, has returned to New Oxford, and succeeds E. J. Hershey as foreman in Emmert's shoe factory.

Labor day was observed in York last Monday by a practical suspension of business at the industrial establishments. The parade of the labor unions in the morning was conceded to be the largest of its kind ever held there. It is estimated that over 2000 were in line.

The supervisors of the various townships should not forget that they are liable to a fine when they neglect to pick the loose stones off the public roads.

Members of Minnewaukaru Loft, Hanover, of the "Haymakers," and friends to the number of about 100 went to Littlestown last Tuesday and instituted Catoctin Loft No. 129-1-2.

Ex-Sudge W. F. Sadler, of Carlisle, Republican candidate for President Judge of Cumberland county, has filed papers in the Prothonotary's office for a summons in slander against R. E. Shearer, who was Collector of Internal Revenue under President Cleveland. The amount of damages asked for is $25,000. Several other suits will likely follow.

It is stated that Housewives are canning so much fruit that there's a scarcity of glass quart jars.

Rev. Christopher Noss, a retired missionary from Japan, has been chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Dr. E. V. Gerhart in the chair of systematic theology at the Lancaster Seminary.

Real Estate.

Last Thursday B. J. Spangler, attorney-in-fact for widow and heirs of George Spangler, deceased, sold the farm in Cumberland township, 171 acres, to William Patterson, at $24 per acre; also a property of about 18 acres to Geo. W. Schwartz for $1,525.

The large farm at Biglerville owned by W. S. Duttera was sold by him last week to Louis Hoffman, the hay dealer, at Biglerville, the terms of the sale being private.

Joseph Hamilton, of Highland township, sold his farm to Samuel Wisler, of Franklin township, for $2400.

On Saturday the heirs of John Bender, deceased, sold the farm in Straban township, to Wm. A. McIlhenry at $50 per acre, 165 acres.

The property of Nicholas G. Wilson on Baltimore street, Gettysburg, has been sold at private sale to Mrs. Felix Folter for $2,100. Possession to be given November 1st.

Two farms in Straban township, near New Chester, the property of Walter Dechert, deceased, were sold at public sale by Laura C., his widow and executrix, last Thursday. The large farm of 174 acres was sold to Harry Zeig of the same township at $19 an acre. The other farm of 151 acres was sold to Wm. Fleming, who is also a resident of Straban, for $4.75 per acre.

Harry E. Wirt, administrator of estate of Harry Wirt, on the 3rd, sold the farm in Straban township, 83 acres, to Harry Wirt for $11,652, and a small tract in same township, to Harvey Group for $132.

MARRIAGE.

Many friends and relatives were present at Memorial United Brethren Church last Wednesday evening to attend the wedding of two popular young Gettysburg folks. They were Miss Blanch M. Kitzmiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David F. Kitzmiller, and Emory Dougherty, an employee of the Keystone E. L. H. & P. Company and a son of Mrs. Mary E. Dougherty.

The groom was attended by Roy Plank. The ushers were Harry Stock, Harry Redding, Emmor Rice and Bert Widder.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the bride, Rev. S. L. Rice. During the ceremony Miss Mitten played "Hearts and Flowers," and while the party was leaving the church, Mendelssohn's wedding march, A. brother, John D. Kitzmiller, gave the bride away.

A reception was held at the bride's home on East Middle street, where about 100 invited guests attended.

The presents to the bride included many gifts of silver, cut glass, linen, furniture and the like. Among the gifts was a handsome sideboard, the gift of fellow-employees of the groom at the power house.

WIGLE-SORBADE.—Sept. 6, at Franklintown, by Rev. J. C. Conison, Mr. Goldeth M. Wigle, of Huntington township, to Miss Alice Sorbaugh, of York county.

MCKAY-WALKER.—Sept. 8, at Gettysburg, by Rev. S. L. Rice, Mr. Duncan McKay, to Miss Jennie C. Plank, both of Washington.

WALTERHOFFER-KLINGEL.—Sept. 4, at Hampton, by Rev. Paul M. Spangler, Mr. Charles A. Walterhoffer, of Hanover, to Miss Bernice E. Klingel, of Hampton.

DEATH OF ABNER GRIEST.

East Berlin, Pa., Sept. 12.—Mr. Lewis Myers, of this place, now residing on Locust Street, has recently improved his property by erecting a fine new barn on his lot, Mr. N. S. Brown, contractor.

Miss Fannie Bushey left last Tuesday morning for Millersville State Normal School, where she will take studies in the department of music and elocution.

The lower end of town was livened up quite a bit last Wednesday night, when Mr. and Mrs. George Gise, who were recently wedded, were serenaded by an old-fashioned calathumpian band.

Mr. Walderman and Miss Renicker, of Baltimore, who formerly conducted the sewing factory in this, were succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Gladfelter, who until last week had charge of the sewing factory in Dover. The factory is in a flourishing condition and the employees, numbering about 30, are engaged in the manufacturing of night gowns.

Our schools opened last Monday a week with an exceedingly large attendance. Mr. J. P. Kauffman is principal. Mr. H. P. Troup teaches the intermediate grade, and Miss Laura Spangler has charge of the primary department.

Saturday, Sept. 3rd, the mill at the west end of town formerly owned by Mr. Sprinkle, was sold at public sale to J. O. Hershey & Co., who will conduct the business on a large scale. Repairs in the dam will be extended. The lumber for this purpose will be obtained from the farm of Harry Bushy of Reading township.

Mr. Abner Griest, of this place, died Friday forenoon after being confined to bed for about four weeks from consumption. Internment to-day at the Bermudian Churches. Mr. Griest conducted a store in Bragtown for quite a length of time and about three years ago he removed to this place and has since then lived a somewhat retired life. He was a very popular and well-known citizen of this community. His wife survives him.

DEATH OF MRS. THOMAS.

Biglerville, Sept. 12.—Mrs. A. H. Thomas departed this life on Monday evening, aged 52 years and 2 days; internment at Arendtsville on Thursday, Revs. Burkholder and Flemming officiating. Mrs. Thomas is survived by her husband and five sons, C. A., of Ridgway, Pa.; Frank, Nile, Robert and Willie at home.

The street improvements are progressing nicely and the work of paving the side walks has been commenced. G. W. Koser, E. L. Fohl and A. F. Cronise are putting down concrete walks: U. S. Klinefelter, Jesse Weigle and S. W. Bowers Mt. Holly white brick; John Deatrick, C. P. K. Walter, Edward Stallsmith and Miss Sue Deardorff red brick of the new brick company of Gettysburg.

The Citizens' Band will hold the last festival of the season on Saturday, Sept. 17.

The festival set for last Saturday evening was drowned out on account of the heavy rain.

Kent Walker, of Heidlersburg, has moved into the Sillik house on South Main street.

Rev. Millar, of Maryland, visited his father, Jacob B. Millar, of Penn street.

Jesse Quickle, brother of Jacob Quickle, is seriously ill.

York Springs Notes.

The bank officials are getting all arrangements completed for the opening of their institution on October 1st. A large new time lock safe has been purchased as also the necessary office furniture. The bank will be located in the building of Mrs. Peters, next door to the postoffice, which will undergo extensive repairs to put it in shape.

B. D. Hostetter has purchased the creamery in this place from the York Springs Creamery Co. and will take possession of the plant on October 1st. It will be remembered that Mr. Hostetter started this creamery and ran it for several years—"Comet."

The Mount Holly Picnic.

Some of our people attended the Harvest Home picnic held at Mt. Holly Springs on last Thursday. It is estimated that several thousand persons were in attendance. The regular and two special trains were run on the P. & R., and the Cumberland Valley line gave extra service. A special train left Gettysburg that morning and returned in the evening. The Germania orchestra of Carlisle, furnished music for dancing and a number of bands from neighboring towns in the Cumberland Valley were present.

Rural Carriers Organized.

The Cumberland County rural mail carriers convened in Carlisle last Friday and organized a county association. Postmaster C. S. Brinton, of Carlisle, made the address of welcome. The following officers were elected: President, Louis A. Diller, Mechanicsburg; Vice President, James E. Railing, Shippensburg; Secretary, George R. Traxler, Carlisle.

THE EVERGREEN CEMETERY

cluding the archway, and a height of 25 feet, surmounted with a handsome cornice, iron ornaments and urn. The gate is of iron. The west wing of the structure was subsequently enlarged with an additional brick building, and later still with a frame weatherboarded summer house.

In the original plan of the cemetery a chapel was provided for to be erected when the resources of the association justified the cost of such a building. It is universally regarded as fitting that one day each year should be set apart for paying homage and respect to the soldier dead of the land. Would it not also be a graceful and proper thing for us, the living, to give part of one day in fifty years from labor and assemble together in our beautiful Evergreen Cemetery to show respect and love to our civilian dead? With proper effort suitable exercises could be arranged for even at this late day.

A Great Fair.

Cumberland county fair to be held at Carlisle, September 27, 28, 29 and 30th, will be better than ever. Best racing in the state and other up-to-date attractions.

PARKER TO EDITORS.

Judge's First Political Speech--
Makes Economy Issue.

Editors of upwards of 200 Democratic newspapers, representing various parts of the country, went to Rosemount Thursday a week to visit Judge Parker. The following is part of his address to them:

"I crave your indulgence while I briefly refer to a single feature of the platform of the Republican party.

"That platform opens with a declaration of that party's many years of control of government, coupled with the assertion that it has displayed a high capacity for rule and government, which has been made even more conspicuous by the incapacity and infirmity of purpose shown by its opponents.

"This challenge to a comparison of Democratic and Republican administrations since the Republican party came into existence should be welcomed. Fortunately we have eight recent years of Democratic administration of the Executive department of the Government which we will gladly compare with any similar period since 1860.

"The comparison will show that under Democratic control the administrative purity of the fathers was observed in the conduct of the Government; that no one of its departments was permeated as of late with corruption rivaling the days of the Star-route frauds; that a successful effort was made to check the growth of expenditures; that it resulted in each instance in cutting down the expenses within the control of the Executive department of the Government below that of the preceding administrations. The comparison will show also that each succeeding Republican administration after 1863 increased expenses, and in some instances so greatly as to indicate reckless extravagance and waste of people's money. And you will be convinced that reform is necessary: aye, far more necessary than in 1876 in the scale of public expense, and when convinced you will do less than your duty if you fail to make the people understand it.

"The challenge of the Republican platform permits you to compare the details, the everyday life, so to speak, of the Democratic administration with both predecessor and successive administrations, and you will not shrink from it.

"The sturdy honesty, marked ability and through devotion to principle of all those in high places during those Democratic administrations may without hesitation be placed alongside of the qualifications of similar officials in any and all other administrations. Who, I pray you, would hesitate to compare the members of the Cabinet of those years with the present one or with any one? Is the fame of Bayard, Manning, Fairchild, Endicott, Whitney, Vilas, Dickinson, Garland, members of the 1884 Cabinet, and Olney, Carlisle, Lamont, Smith, Francis, Herbert, Bissell, Wilson and Harmon, of that of 1892, dwarfed when contrasted with the Cabinet officers of today? When the comparison is once completed you will be eager to ask the people which is the better. They will declare the victor in the contest between administrations to be the one which, in addition to other excellencies, saved many millions a year to the nation.

"Extravagance is running riot in Federal, state and municipal governments, in spite of the well-directed effort of some excellent officials. The Recent experiments conducted by most eminent scientists, prove that light is a great remedial agent; it is essentially Nature's agent. It may be either sunlight or electric light, but it has a decided effect in helping nature to banish disease and restore health. Other scientific men have proved that oxygen electrifies the heart and can prolong life.

The people on this earth are susceptible to some laws which govern plant life. A plant cannot be successfully grown in the dark. A man is seldom healthy and strong who lives in the dark or in sunless rooms. After all, Nature's ways are found to be the best. Nature's remedies are always best for eradicating disease, and by this we mean a medicine made of roots and herbs. They are assimilated in the stomach and taken up by the blood and are, therefore, the most potent means which can be employed for the regaining of lost health. Dr. R. V. Pierce, consulting physician to the Paralytic Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., in many years of extensive practice, found that he could put his faith in an alternative extract of certain plants and roots for the cure of all blood diseases. This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Containing no alcohol, nor narcotics, entirely vegetable, this "Discovery" makes rich red blood and is a powerful tissue-builder, giving the tired business man or woman renewed strength and health. Rapidly growing school-girls and boys often show impoverished blood by the pimples or boils which appear on face or neck. To eradicate the poisons from the blood, and feed the lungs and stomach on pure blood, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering his own blood remedy to you instead of this well-known preparation of Dr. Pierce's. Ten chances to one he will substitute a cheap compound having a large percentage of alcohol in it. Dr. Pierce's Pills are the best for the bowels. Use them with the "Discovery."

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

indebtedness of the municipal governments is steadily piling up, bond issues are increasingly frequent, and the people have not the satisfaction in many instances of a full equivalent in improvements for the money expended. And the Federal Government is leading in the race of great expenditures. Ere long the people will demand a reform in administrative expenses. And they will do it now if they are made to appreciate the whole truth.

"The Democratic party is not a machine. It is a body of citizens who believe that on the whole its fundamental principles are best adopted to the conduct of the Government."

VARIOUS MANOEUVRES.

Lest the voting public become alarmed at the immense cost of maintaining "the big stick," President Roosevelt on Sept. 9 directed that the annual reports of the various navy yards should be held up and kept from publication until further orders are received from him. The fiscal year ends on June 30 and ordinarily these reports, which contain nothing but a sort of bookkeeper's statement of receipts and expenditures, are given to the public at once. It is different this year. A similar order has been received by the War Department, but applies there only to chiefs of bureaus. In the same manner there will be no statement of the cost of the army manoeuvres at Manassas, Va. A military expert who returned today from that show said:

"A million dollars is an extravagant sum for this Government to pay for the encouragement of social festivities in the army and that is all that these manoeuvres amount to. The general staff, which is supposed to direct the solutions of the various problems, spends its time mostly in the mess tent, entertaining the visiting Governors of the States. The officers in the fields, Generals Grant and Bell, take interest in the proceedings, but without the support at headquarters their work is almost thrown away. As a matter of fact the only lesson which the militiaman is learning is to take care of himself in camp, but three-fourths of the boys in America have already learned that. He knows that it is better to build a small fire than a large one because it is impossible to get near enough the latter to cook, and he knows how to make coffee and broil a steak.

"Each night at the banquet table General Corbin rises, champagne glass in hand, and in portentously solemn tones announces, 'The President,' and the company gulps in silence. One would think that it was the mess table of an English regiment and the company was drinking a toast to 'The King.'"—From "The Record's" Correspondent.

Potato Bug is The Limit.

It nows appears, according to the statements of the wise men in our Agriculture Department, that there is no cannibalistic insect which Uncle Sam can produce or import that will devour potato bugs. There is a species of ant, indigenous to Guatemala, which will eat any bug in South America. Colonies of these ants were imported and set to work defending Texas cotton plants from the attacks of the boll weevil. They have done fairly well in respect to the weevils, but have not given entire satisfaction. Next to boll weevil the potato bug is the greatest enemy of the Southern farmer. The experts in Washington decided to put the Guatemalan ant on the trial of the insect which plays havoc with the granger's potato patch. The ant came and saw, but didn't conquer, the potato bug. For reasons best known to himself, he declined to give rein to his cannibalistic propensities. The Agricultural Department theory is that any insect which a Guatemalan ant will not devour must be "pretty tough eating." Agriculturists who have potato patches must get rid of the bugs by the old-fashion methods.

REVOLUTIONARY PENSIONERS

Three Still Living, One a Widow of 90 Years.

Commissioner Ware's annual report of the pension business of the government contains some interesting information in regard to revolutionary war pensioners. Three of them are living, one the widow and the others the daughters of revolutionary soldiers. The widow is Mrs. Ester S. Damon, of Plymouth Union, Vt., 90 years old. Her husband, Noah Damon, served in the Massachusetts troops from April 19, 1775, to May 11, 1780.

Sarah C. Hurlburt, of Little March, Pa., 86 years old, is the daughter of Elijah Weeks, who served two years and six months in a Massachusetts regiment. Rhoda Augustus Thompson, of Woodbury, Conn., 83 years old, is the daughter of Thaddeus Thompson, who served six years as private in Captain John Lamb's company, of New York troops.

Two revolutionary pensioners died during the year covered by the report. One of them, Rebecca Mayo, died at Newbern, Va., at the age of 91 years. The other, Hannah Newell Barrett, who died in Boston on Dec. 25, 1903, at the age of 102 years, was the daughter of Noah Harrod, a private of the Massachusetts troops.

The only surviving pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 is Hiram Cronk, of New York State, who was born April 29, 1800, and enlisted on Aug. 4, 1814. On the same day his father and two brothers also enlisted under Capt. Edmund Fuller in the defence of Sackett's Harbor. The father and his three sons were honorably discharged on Nov. 16, 1814.

FUSS AND FEATHERS.

The introduction of "court costumes," the increase of gold lace and fripperies, the raising of questions of precedence at the social semi-public functions at the White House, are not in themselves matters of great consequence. Many people have shown that they like that sort of thing, and the high-sounding titles and gorgeous uniforms in use in the various social and fraternal orders afford a harmless outlet for this love of pageantry. When, however, these things are given official sanction by the President of the United States, and are, indeed, encouraged and fostered by him, it is time to consider their tendency.

In the case of the Secretary of War, the military display attending the movements of the retiring and incoming officials was distinctly out of place. The Secretary of War is not a military officer, and is no more entitled to a cavalry escort when he goes to or from his office than is any other civil servant of the government.

The seriousness of the situation lies in the fact that this tendency to fuss and feathers is calculated to cultivate a notion of official authority and position foreign to American principles, not of equality merely, but of liberty. Public officials in America are in a real sense the servants, not the masters, of the people, and the danger in the growth of this love of pageantry is that it obscures that fact and indicates a return to governmental ideas the rejection of which rests at the very foundation of the Republic.—Public Ledger.

Baltimore's Fire Burning.

City Surveyor Ralph C. Thomas reported to the Burnt District Commission that his men, on the 5th, uncovered a large quantity of wheat that was still burning—exactly seven months after Baltimore's big fire. "The wheat was so hot," said Mr. Thomas, "that we could not handle it. We had to let it cool off before we could proceed with the work. The wheat was in solid chunks, but the grains were distinctly visible."

THE LABOR ON THE FARM.

Larger Profits Derived From Small Farms Well Cultivated.

It matters not whether the farmer buys his labor, or performs it himself, it must be paid for. He will not consider himself satisfied unless he is remunerated for every hour's time he devotes to the working of a crop, or on any special plot of ground. But as a rule, farmers are prone to give more work on some locations than is necessary under certain conditions. It is a waste of time and labor to cultivate two acres if a larger crop can be secured, proportionately, on one. One acre may not support a farmer, but the rule is applicable to larger areas. He should not cultivate fifty acres if he can secure better results from twenty-five. It will pay him to realize seventy-five bushels of corn, or twenty-five bushels of wheat, per acre, per acre, from twenty-five acres, while he may lose money if he secures fifty bushels of corn, or twenty bushels of wheat, per acre, from fifty acres. It is not the gross amount of produce he receives that pays, but the net. It requires more time to spread a given amount of manure over two acres than upon one, and, so far as cultivation is concerned, the cost is double. Now, all this extra work may be thrown away if the farmer can, by lessening the area, devote more time and attention to a smaller space. There will be less hurry, more thorough cultivation, greater facility in harvesting, fewer laborers and better condition of the working stock. It is in the correct application of labor that the profits are derived. It may be wasted or misapplied, and thus cause bankruptcy instead of prosperity.

There are farmers who feed all animals alike without regard to the fact that some will consume much more than others. It has long been estimated that half a bushel of grain a day will supply 50 sheep, in addition to long food, but there is a great difference in the breeds of sheep and individuals also differ. The only way to feed is to closely observe the animals and supply their wants without waste.

Some farmers prefer to save their seed potatoes, but before doing so there are precautions to be taken. The slightest indication of disease on potatoes should cause their rejection, as the crop of next year will be diseased from such seed. Every bushel of seed potatoes should be carefully examined, and examinations of potatoes in the bins should also be made during the winter.

The free use of lime in the autumn, especially under fruit trees, will materially assist in destroying fungi. Use air-slaked lime and apply it freely. It is not as efficacious as some of the spraying mixtures, but is beneficial to a certain extent at this season. Some soils require lime, and it will prove as valuable under trees as on land intended for regular crops.

An orchard is a necessity on the farm. It is well known that a farm containing an orchard will sell at a fair price when farms with no orchards are sacrificed. The buyer always looks for the greatest number of advantages, and if apples, peaches, pears, plums and small fruits can be found, instead of an apple orchard, the value of the farm will be increased much more than the original cost of the orchard. If the farm is not for sale the orchard will be a source of profit to the farmer.

The feeding of pumpkins, beets, carrots, turnips and potatoes to cattle should be done more with a view of adding variety to the food than to giving such articles as portions of the regular rations. Grain and hay are the best of all foods for cows in winter, but the animals appreciate a change from the dry foods to ensilage or vegetables. Pumpkins, beets and carrots may be sliced and fed raw, while potatoes should be cooked and thickened with bran and cornmeal by way of adding to the variety.

It is possible by heavy mulching of orchards where grass is allowed to grow to keep the surface moist and loose, so that the grass does no injury, but in such cases it will be found that the tree roots run near the surface, where they naturally go to reach moisture and light. This makes such orchards very liable to injury by winter freezing. It is better to cultivate the surface soil to the depth of three or four inches, as that makes the best mulch, and also cut off the tree roots near the surface. But a better plan is to train the head so low that the branches will come near the ground. This will cause the snow to lie as it falls, making further mulching unnecessary.

Many of the pasture fields are grazed too close to the ground. When a herd of cows have free access to a pasture they cut the grass down many times, and much closer than is usually done with a mower. No plants will thrive if not given an opportunity to make growth, and the grass on some pastures is killed by continually checking the growth, while the feet of the animals greatly damage the grass, as the smaller the supply the more trampling by the stock.

If the animals are allowed to run down in flesh it will be a loss to the farmer, as he is then compelled to restore them to their original condition before he makes a gain. At the same time their is a waste of as many days as the animals are below their normal conditions, which is lost time that can never be regained.

CARE OF LIVE STOCK.

Products of Dairy and Their Value Affected According to Care Bestowed

One of the essentials to success in the dairy business is cleanliness. Not only should the stalls be kept clean and well littered, but the animals should receive that attention which is so necessary for their thrift and comfort and the protection of the consumers of the products of the dairy. The dairyman or farmer who takes interest in his dairy business will not neglect the slightest details which may be necessary to insure pure products. A visit to many of our large dairy farms will show that the treatment bestowed upon the cow and horse is very different. The horse is kept in the very cleanest possible condition, and in addition to cleaning his stall from every trace of filth care is exercised in so arranging his bedding as to prevent his becoming contaminated with filth in any manner. And, if all the precautions exercised are not sufficient to protect him, the brush and currycomb are made to perform effective service as early as the attendant can give him the benefit arising from their use.

With the cow the case is different. The stanchion is relied upon to prevent her becoming plastered with filth, and she is subjected to many other inconveniences with which the horse is not afflicted. But few cows have such beds as are given the horses, while some of them have no beds at all. If one will throw off all prejudices and consider the matter fairly he must admit that with the cow cleanliness is more important than with the horse. Her product—milk—is a substance very susceptible to odors, and if she is permitted to become filthy nothing can prevent the dirt from passing into the milk. With the dust and manure adhering to her udder, the hands of the milkman (being moistened by the milk) assist in rendering soluble coarser particles that would otherwise escape, and as the strainer can only arrest the solid matter that has been dissolved by the milk or washed into the pails, the insoluble materials remain to injure the product.

Cleanliness is more essential with the cow than for the horse, yet if one should suggest that a cow be brushed and carried he would be ridiculed at once in some localities, though persons who would not give five minutes of such labor to a cow will cheerfully devote an hour to cleaning the horse. The health of the cow is as easily promoted by good treatment as is that of the horse, and she will give a larger product and also a greater profit from such careful attention, while there are hundreds of cows that do not pay for themselves simply because they are kept under adverse conditions. The cow that is compelled to sleep on a hard floor or on a filthy litter of straw soon becomes diseased, her skin being rough and full of dirt and at times having the appearance of being coated with scales, which subject her to great inconvenience and prove as much an obstacle to her success as to a horse under similar circumstances. Too much cleanliness cannot be given the stalls, and too much attention to the thrift and comfort of the cows cannot be bestowed. Not only her body, but her product is affected. The cleanliness of the stalls means cleanliness for the cows, and the labor allotted in that direction will reap its reward not only in an increased product, but in its quality and the prices obtained, as cleanliness is essential to quality in dairy products.

An Order For Diamonds

[Copyright, 1904, by C. B. Lewis.]

The house of Sloane, Saunders & Co., London, had received a letter from Sir James Blankton, living about a mile out of the village of Morpeth, asking them to send down a man with diamonds for marriage presents. It was added that his carriage would meet the man at the station at 6 o'clock in the evening. I was the one selected to go, and I reached Morpeth on time with $3,000 worth of diamonds concealed about my person.

A carriage awaited me, but I had hardly taken a seat in it when I had queer feelings. The outfit was too common to be owned and publicly used by such a man as Sir James Blankton, and the two men on the box didn't appear at all like servants. I made bold to say:

"See here, men. I think there is a mistake. I think I have got Sir James Blankton mixed up with Sir James Dashton. It is the latter who owns a large interest in a Manchester cotton factory, isn't it?"

"It may be, but I dunno," replied the man who was driving as he pulled up his horses.

"Well, you see, I wanted to show him some of these new dyes for cottons."

"Is that your line, sir?"

"Yes. I have ten new colors just out. I am sorry for the blunder, but I am willing."

"Then what the bloody blazes did you get into this turnout for?"

"To see Sir James Blankton, of course. I got it in my head."

"Oh, blow your head and your heels too! Jim, turn about and drive the bloomin' ass back to town!"

"I'll be shot if I does!" replied Jim.

"He can get right out 'ere and take 'isself back on his own legs and be blowed to him!"

When I had walked the two miles and reached town, I went to a hotel. Inside of five minutes I had learned that Sir James Blankton lived in the opposite direction to that I had taken. Further, that the gentleman and his wife had been in Scotland for several weeks. It did not take me long to figure it out to my perfect satisfaction. It was a put up job to rob the London house through me, and it had been put up with the aid of some one at Sir James Blankton's house.

I started for London by the 9 o'clock train. The night had come on dark and stormy, and there were but few passengers from Morpeth. There were two plain women ticketed to Durham and a man about forty years old of pleasing address and genteel appearance. The four of us were ushered into the same compartment. As soon as we fell into conversation the man gave me to understand that he lived at Beverly, a town about fifty miles down the line, and from certain words let fall I gathered that he was a prominent public official of the place. I didn't exactly reply that I was in the dye line, but he probably inferred as much from what I said. I was glad of his company. He was well posted, a fair talker.

The women got out at Durham and left us alone. We passed Darlington and were still the sole occupants of the compartment. Mr. Arnold, as he had given his name, had been sitting opposite me for an hour. As the train cleared Darlington, however, he rose up and yawned and said:

"I am sleepy, and yet I can never get a wink of sleep on the train. By the way, I found a curious coin on the street at Morpeth today. Can you make anything of it?"

He had a coin in his fingers as he stepped over to me. I reached out a hand to receive it when he seized me by the throat with both hands and had me on my back in a second. I was no match for him in strength. He gripped my throat so suddenly and so fiercely that I was deprived of all powers of resistance. Bending over me, with his knee on my chest, he finally let up on his clutch and said:

"Don't be foolish now! I know you and am after those diamonds." He drew a wicked looking knife and held it in his teeth, while he used some stout cord to tie my hands behind my back. Why didn't I resist? Simply because his clutch on my throat had almost paralyzed me. When he had taken the key of my Gladstone from one of my pockets he turned me over and said:

"Now for the sparklers. I know you shifted them to the bag when you were at the hotel. A deuced fine layout, and the cash value must be close to £10,000. It's a pretty haul indeed, and no risk attending it."

He placed the jewel case in his pocket, lighted a cigar and pleasantly continued:

"Take it easy, my boy. The next stop is North Allerton, and I shall gag you and leave the train there. You'll be discovered at Leeds or sooner."

I was so mad and my throat hurt me so much that I made no attempt to reply. After a couple of minutes the train slackened speed, and in sixty seconds more it had come to a standstill.

"Special stop, is it?" growled the robber as he took a gag from his pocket and bent over me. "Well, here goes to keep you quiet while I get away."

Just then the guard opened the door to admit two passengers, and I began to yell at the top of my voice. The robber made a bolt for it, and he would have got off temporarily at least but for an accident. He caught his foot and fell heavily on the platform, and before he could rise the guards had him secure. The job had been put up between him and the two men who drove me, assisted by a maid in Sir James Blankton's house, and I had the satisfaction of seeing the quartet sent to prison for long terms. M. QUAD.

Apples Will Be Cheap.

Unless the weather cuts up some queer capers between now and apple picking time, says the "New York Mail and Express," apples will be more plentiful and cheaper this fall than in many years past. There is an enormous crop on the trees, in better condition than ever before. While the crop is not so large as in 1896, the banner year, it is the opinion of the experts and biggest dealers in the country that more apples will be barreled than in 1896.

Reports show that many new orchards have come into being in Colorado and other sections of the West, making a large addition to the total output. In this State the outlook is for a crop 25 per cent. greater than last year. The wholesale dealers are more than pleased with the New York State crop, which in some sections is phenomenal. In Niagara county, for instance, the records for apple production will be broken if the season is favorable.

Bullet of '63 Now Kills Old Soldier.

A bullet which he received in his chest while fighting in the Union Army at Gettysburg forty-one years ago caused the death of Herman Dersch, of Hamburg, Pa., last Wednesday.

The wound had caused the soldier more or less trouble, and recently an abscess formed, which caused his death, at the age of 69 years.

Dersch also received a bullet in his head during that same battle on Little Round Top. But this bullet was removed in 1871.

Joanna Craig Dead.

Joanna C. Craig, a well known colored woman living above Cashtown, died after a protracted illness on Saturday last, aged about 83 years. The funeral took place on Monday morning, the interment being in the colored people's cemetery in Gettysburg, and the services conducted by Rev. Koser of Arendtsville. Joanna was a relative of the Chuyler family, which will be remembered by some of our older residents. She was the widow of James Craig. She bequeathed her property, a house and 3 acres of land, in Franklin township, to Mrs. Mark Bream.

Letter to Davis & Co.

Gettysburg, Pa.

Dear Sir: Thomas J. Bannon, druggist, Westley, R. I., says:

Westerley painters expect a gallon of paint to cover 10 sets of hand; Devoe covers 25; there is no such thing as rubbing this out.

(The usual reckoning is for a gallon to cover 16. We suspect the Westerley people don't wear their paint till it gets very shabby.)

Devoe's covers more; of course, we know that; we know why too; it's all paint and full measure.

"St. Louis Day" at Fair.

"St. Louis Day," the most imposing of all the special days in the history of the Louisiana purchase exposition, was celebrated Thursday and admissions show the largest number of visitors of any one day during the entire exposition.

From the time the gates opened until the close of the day various interesting features entertained the throngs of visitors. Business generally was suspended in St. Louis. The streets were deserted. St. Louis practically en masse attended the exposition and excursion trains augmented the attendance by almost constant impourings during the forenoon.

COMPLETE returns of the Maine election show a Republican plurality of 27,130, as compared with 33,384 in 1900.

THE New York State Convention last Thursday nominated Frank W. Higgins, of Cattaraugus, for Governor.

If ever man asserted "I am the Republican party" without putting it in just those words, Theodore Roosevelt does it in his letter of acceptance.

Two dollar wheat is predicted for next May. Mr. Roosevelt hasn't as yet come forward to claim the credit, presumably because two dollar wages are not predicted for the laborer with which to buy bread, remarks the "Belleville Watchman."

There has been no renewal of fighting since the retreat of the Russian army under General Kuropatkin to Mukden. Conditions there, within the Japanese and the Russian line, indicate that a month may elapse before the great armies in central Manchuria again enter upon a general engagement.

In his letter of acceptance President Roosevelt said, that, "If continued in power we shall continue our foreign policy and our handling of the navy as in the past." If that means anything it means that the expenditure of the navy shall be continued at the rate expressed in the last appropriation, which is at the rate of more than double that of any previous year.

Get Rid of Scrofula

Bunches, eruptions, inflammations, soreness of the eyelids and ears, diseases of the bones, rickets, dyspepsia, catarrh, wasting, are only some of the troubles it causes.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Eradicates it, cures all its manifestations, and builds up the whole system.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

It has been asserted by some of our contemporaries that the only issue in this campaign is a personal one between the two leading candidates for president. This may be true if we concede that Mr. Roosevelt's personality pervades and dominates Congress, the supreme court, the army, the navy and the Republican party. In that entourage, we find love of war, expansion, extravagance, a disregard of the nice distinctions between the executive and the legislative branches of the government, a desire for despotic control of distant lands, a disposition to be sectional in the treatment of the people of this union of states. And because Mr. Roosevelt is the presiding genius and inspiration of all these false ideals of republicanism, it is his personality which we have to combat.

Judge Parker also has a personality but it is one which all patriotic citizens can uphold. In him the Democratic party has a candidate who stands for the Constitution—for law in its strictest sense; for the whole union; for justice to all people.

Roosevelt's Contempt.

No man in public life has ever expressed such a contempt for the farmers and laborers of our country as has President Roosevelt. After attributing to the cowboys of the West a moral depravity of which no cowboy has been guilty within half a century; after declaring that they were "brutally dissipated," that "when drunk on villainous whiskey they cut mad antics, ride horses in saloons, firing their pistols right and left," etc., in his "Ranch Life and Hunting Trail" (pp. 9 and 10), he adds:

"They are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."

In a speech made by him in New York in October, 1896, at a "sound-money" meeting in the Wool Exchange, reported in the "New York Journal" October 23, 1896, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land, the farmers."

It is a marvel that any party should offer as a candidate for the Presidency a man who has so viciously traduced the character of the best type of our citizenship, the American farmer.

AGRICULTURAL PROSPERITY

According to the census the farmers and the employes comprise forty-five per cent. of the total population of the United States. What an absurdity, then, it is in Candidate Fairbanks and other Republican orators to pretend that the entire country prospers upon a tariff system that directly or indirectly despoils nearly half of its inhabitants! During many years of prosperity the farmers have been best able to bear the burdens of a system that through the malign agency of the Trusts oppresses nearly the whole population. But the system cannot last much longer without destroying that agricultural prosperity which is the fruitful source of the prosperity of the whole country. Already the warfare of the Dingley tariff upon the commercial nations of the world has caused them to seek in other regions, in Canada, Argentina and Australia, their needed supplies of breadstuffs and other food. The effect is visible in the returns of export trade in agricultural products. Should the champions of the stand-pat policy remain in power four years more, says the "Phila. Record," no man can predict the extent of the reaction against the prosperity of the American farmers.

PROHIBITION COUNTY TICKET

The Prohibition County Convention was held in the Arbitration Room, Court-house, on Monday afternoon, when this ticket was nominated:

Congress—S. S. W. Hammett, Highland.
Judge—Homer L. Castle, Pittsburg.
Legislature—Abia Smucker, Littleton.
Lewis M. Heikes, Huntington township.
Associate Judge—John J. Hunter, Liberty.
Hiram Grist, Bendersville.
Prothonotary—Jacob Klepper, Arendtsville.
Director of the Poor—O. B. Lightner, Hamiltonban.
Coroner—E. F. Strasbaugh, Hamilton.
Rev. S. C. Rice presided. A resolution endorsing the national ticket was adopted.

OUT AGAINST SADDLER.

The "Carlisle Daily Volunteer," the leading Democratic organ of Cumberland county, and the oldest paper in county, in a double-headed editorial in Wednesday morning's issue, entitled "Under the Same Old Flag," hoists the Democratic National, State and county ticket, gives John W. Wetzel, the Democratic candidate for president Judge, a hearty support.

McSHERRY FOR CONGRESS

NOMINATED BY THE CONFERENCE HERE YESTERDAY.

Unanimous Choice of York and Adams Counties—Proceedings of Meetings of Conferees.

The Democratic congressional conference assembled for its third session at the Central Hotel at Hanover Thursday morning with the following present: From Adams County—J. L. Butt, Esq., of Gettysburg; George W. Schwartz, of Franklin township, and Jacob B. Morrison, of Straban. County Chairman Wm. P. Devine was also in attendance. From York County—Hon. Charles M. Kerr, of Wrightsville, chairman; E. H. Zartzman, of North Codorus (substitute for C. J. Delone, Esq.) and Thomas J. O'Neill, conferees. Hon. H. W. Haines, chairman of the York County Democratic Committee, was also present.

After a long session, which resulted in a deadlock, the conference adjourned to meet on Friday.

The conferees at Hanover on Friday after a session of an hour adjourned to hold county caucusses. After meeting again, a resolution was adopted reading as follows:

"Resolved, That we adjourn until next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of agreeing upon a third man."

The name of Mr. Butt, of Adams, has been mentioned in connection with the nomination and York county would have been willing to yield to him, but he has insisted that he would not consider the nomination at all.

Wm. McSherry Nominated.

Pursuant to adjournment on Friday the conferees met at Hanover yesterday morning, all being present. The question of the selection of a candidate was discussed at length, and it was concluded to adjourn to meet at Gettysburg at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In consequence of this action the body arrived here and went into session at the Eagle Hotel, Geo. W. Schwartz, of Adams, chairman.

Mr. Butt moved that a committee of two be appointed to call on Wm. McSherry, Esq., of Gettysburg, to inquire whether he would accept the congressional nomination. This motion was carried unanimously, and Chairman Schwartz appointed J. L. Butt, of Adams, and C. J. Delone, of York.

Mr. McSherry was called upon by this committee and at their suggestion appeared before the conference. He announced his willingness to accept the nomination and received the unanimous vote.

It was agreed that should Mr. McSherry also desire the nomination two years from this time he should be entitled to it.

Mr. McSherry will prove a strong candidate in both York and Adams. His choice as the congressional nominee is a source of gratification to the Democrats of both counties.

It was also agreed that a recommendation be made to the committees appointed to arrange a system for future congressional nomination to the effect that hereafter Adams shall be entitled to the nomination for two terms and York for four terms.

Herbert Bismarck Dead.

Prince Herbert Bismarck died at Friedrichsruhe, Germany, Sunday morning.

He leaves one sister, who is the wife of Count von Bentzau. His brother William died in 1901.

Prince Herbert leaves five children—two girls and three boys. His brother William had four children, all of whom are living. Countess von Bentzau has no children.

Prince Herbert Bismarck had been ill some weeks with cancer of the liver. For several days before his death, according to cablegrams, his case was considered hopeless.

Born in 1849, he was the eldest son of the late Prince Otto Bismarck, the great Chancellor of the German Empire. He studied law in Berlin and Bonn Universities, served in the Prussian Army as a Lieutenant of reserves during the Franco-German War of 1870-1871, and was severely wounded at the battle of Mars-la-Tour.

The title of Prince Bismarck and the large fortune of Prince Herbert will go to his 7-year-old son Otto.

The late Emperor Frederick gave to the elder Bismarck extensive forests at Friedrichsruhe, which have since increased in value, and the Chancellor gave to Prince Herbert $2,400,000 in securities and cash. The estate is now estimated to be worth $4,000,000, exclusive of the lands.

Valuable Small Farm.

ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1904, the undersigned will offer at public sale on the premises the following valuable tract of land, being the home place of decedent. A farm situate in Mountjoy township, Adams county, Pa., on the public road running from Baltimore turnpike to the Bortneville road, about one mile from latter road and 3 miles south-east of Gettysburg, adjoining lands of C. P. Kries, Frank Rudolph, N. E. Snyder and others, containing 43 acres more or less, about two acres containing good thriving young timber. The improvements consist of a two and one-half story frame dwelling house with summer porch within 10 feet, large barn with stalls on either side of barn floor, two buggy sheds adjoining barn, corn crib, hog pen, chicken house and other outbuildings. There is a well of good soft water, in yard at house, also a spring. Fruit of all kinds on premises, peaches, apples, cherries, etc. The land is well located, being so situated as not to take drainage from other lands and could not be better drained. Land has been in good repair, and is in a good state of cultivation. Fences are in excellent condition. It is convenient to markets, stores, mills, church and school and is a most desirable small farm and home.

PUBLIC SALE

—OF—

Valuable Real Estate.

ON THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6th, 1904, the undersigned will offer at public sale on the premises on the above mentioned day that valuable farm located in Menallen township, Adams county, Pa., situated on the road leading from the Bendersville station, to the Harrisburg and Gettysburg R. R., Bendersville, about one half mile north of the station, containing 107 acres:

This farm is in a high state of cultivation and well improved, having thereon erected two good dwelling houses in good repair, tank barn, wagon shed, corn crib, hog pen and other outbuildings, with a never failing spring of water flowing through cemented troughs for the preservation of milk, and the kitchen door. There is also an abundance of fruit on this farm. It is conveniently located to churches and schools and is in a pleasant neighborhood. There is a very satisfactory showing of coal upon the premises, specimens having already been dug, and burned with success.

Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m. Easy terms of payment will be given. For further particulars address

DR. J. S. BENDER, Carlisle, Pa.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture from backache, rheumatic pain, Any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Dean's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit-dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Dean's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

A BUDGET OF MAXIMS.

Rather than say nothing, men are content to speak ill of themselves. A proud man can never be a loser—no, not even when he renounces his pride.

It is much less for a man's honor to distrust his friends than to be deceived by them.

Few people have the wisdom to like reproaches that would do them good better than praises that do them hurt.

It is with true love as with ghosts and apparitions, a thing that everybody talks of and scarce anybody hath seen.

The most disinterested love is, after all, but a kind of bargain in which the dear love of our own selves always proposes to be the gainer some way or other.—Rochefort.

Naval Cadets.

To enter the Naval academy at Annapolis a boy must be between fifteen and twenty years of age, physically sound, well formed and of robust constitution. He will be examined in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, English grammar, United States history, history of the world, algebra through quadratic equations and plane geometry.

He must sign articles by which he binds himself to serve in the United States navy eight years, including the time of probation at the academy, unless sooner discharged. His pay, which begins at date of admission, is $500 a year.

A Fair Opportunity.

Tasso, being told that he had a fair opportunity of taking advantage of a very bitter enemy, replied, "I wish not to plunder him, but there are things which I wish to take from him—not his honor or his life, but his malice and ill will."

Well spoken! A noble taking from an enemy, "his malice and ill will!" How is that done? Love is the potent weapon. "Heap coals of fire on his head."—Exchange.

The Desertion of Daffodil Maid

By RUTH SANTELE

Copyright, 1901, by T. C. McClure

On the subject of how he had been inveigled into his present position Harrington was more inclined to beg enlightenment than to furnish it. Had it not been for the aggressive solemnity of the vestry walls and the engrossing task of getting successfully into his white gloves, an undertaking which habit had taught him was not to be regarded with levity or indifference, he might have fancied it all a hideous dream.

But here were Bob at his elbow, looking as self-conscious as only bridegroom can, and the rector in ceremonial vestments fluttering his service book leaves. Realist of the real!

Confound it all! After thirty years of sanity how had he been drawn into this worst of transgressions? But when a fellow is the best friend you have in the world and is so beastly happy and so dead in earnest over the thing and comes at you with that tears in his eyes voice—in short, when he's Robert Montgomery Blake, what's to be done?

At any rate, it was done, and he who had carried himself unscathed through the campaigns of one season after another was the victimized best man at last. Harrington felt suddenly as ill at ease in his dress clothes as a college boy at his first "prom."

Even now the organ was pealing its preliminary riot of music. A moment more and the march would summon them forth to the altar rail to await the rest of the party. They had rehearsed the "business" last night with half a dozen candles and supply music. The bride would have her wedding march played by no other than a western school friend, who was to arrive late. Down the two aisles would come the lines of ushers and bridesmaids, the toddling ring bearers, the maid of honor in yellow, with hat of palest green and an armful of daffodils (Madeleine had confided to him all the sickening details), then the stately bride on her father's arm. If one must marry, Madeleine was the right sort, and Bob was getting about the best there was.

This daffodil maid of honor was another of his miseries, a second out of town friend of Madeleine's, a pale creature who would match her daffodils, bearing the impossible name of Clarissa. If Madeleine hadn't betrayed her overinterest in the pairing off and elaborated so upon his official duties to Miss Daffodil it—

"Heavens, Bob! There's our cue! Take a brace, old man. I'll stand by you!" Then internally, "Yes, with the heart in me like a fistful of liquefied air!"

Custom and good breeding save many a day. Everything moved delightfully, and the breath holding moment of the ceremony arrived. That was as far as Harrington ever got in his memory of the occasion. As they faced the altar his eyes were arrested by a vision. It was seated before the organ in a bower of palms, and the soft lights fell on a glorious crown of shining auburn hair. The side of the face was toward him, and there was a faint impression of a filmy green gown.

It was the violent beginning of a tempestuous end. The sight went through him like a physical shock. He saw only the lovely picture, heard only the soft music that fell from the slender fingers. The first usher prodded him into consciousness when the ring was demanded, the daffodil maid had to clutch an unproffered arm for the recession.

Once outside Harrington came again into his self sufficiency. As the second carriage came up the yellow confetti was hustled into it, the door slammed upon the astonished girl, a peremptory "drive on" issued, and a hatless young man dashed breathlessly around the corner to the organ entrance. Just in time! In another vehicle the auburn head was being extinguished.

"Why, Joe Harrington! What's wrong?" The bride's brother was a clear headed master of ceremonies. "You belong with Clarissa, you know."

"Yes, I know. Some mistake. Everybody excited, of course. Say, Dickie, I can go in here just as well. Don't worry, old man. I don't mind in the least."

"All serene! Here, Ethel, you can shelter this carriageless Joe." And Dickie flew off to see that such "carelessness as the best man's being stranded" was not repeated.

"Ethel" mused Harrington as the rubber wheels started, leaning forward and devouring her with his eyes. "Ethel, it suits so admirably I might almost have known. Madeleine only told me Miss Harman."

The red-brown eyes met his squarely. "Joe," she said meditatively. "Yes, I like it. She only told me Mr. Harrington."

"You came?"

"Only this afternoon."

"Why have you never come before?"

"I didn't know there was anything to come for."

As she spoke they flashed under an arc lamp, and, bending eagerly toward her, he caught the shine of her eyes. It was enough. His hands groped an instant, then gathered in her two warm, yielding ones.

"Oh, girl, girl," he whispered exultingly, "I knew the moment I saw you that you had come for my sake! But how, how have I lived all this while and never found you?"

"I cannot tell, dear, only that now

The right time" was the low voice.

Reading back her hands in one of her own, he slipped her side and up, and her head back against his shoulder. His eyes sought hers in the gloom of the carriage, glowing in the revelations brought by the passing lights.

"The right time of all the world, girl, of all the years that have been for you and for me—the right time for the seal of the promise for those that are to come for us," he said with quiet intensity, his lips closing on her unresisting ones.

After a moment she straightened herself with a happy little laugh. "I think we must be nearly there."

"Yes. Wretchedly short drive. Oh, girl, girl, I am so proud of you, so glad! What will they think of us, to be sure? I wasn't having a bit of a good time, and now I'm ever so grateful that Bob insisted on making me best man."

"Why, but, dear!" It was a veritable gurgle of astonishment. "You're not dreaming of telling now? It would never, never do. We've not even been introduced! I'm to be here several weeks, you know, and it must come to pass very gradually."

"I suppose so, bless your proper little heart! But isn't it a wee bit more unconventional to have it happen thus than that it should merely be known of? Anyway I promise to be the most persistently lovelorn of any swain who ever aspired to fair lady's hand. Ah, here we are!"

Fortunately the avenue was well shaded just before the blaze of light at the steps was reached.

Dickie greeted them—how he had managed to pass them a certain team might have borne breathless testimony—in an agony of contrition, his very first blunder. He supposed, of course, they'd met. Clarissa had come alone. Madeleine had been investigating and wrenched from him the whole sad tale. Clarissa wouldn't say a word. They sweetly forgave him and were smilingly introduced.

During the ensuing hours of the reception Harrington, ingenious to the point of bluntness, found use for all his skill as a dissembler. The auburn head was an irresistible magnet, and his telltale eyes followed where his feet were forbidden to tread. Again and again he dragged himself back to the daffodil maid and his proper duty, to find her always mysteriously smiling at him out of a quizzical face. It was hard that the first madly happy hours of one's life should be made to speed so slowly, but at last the bride and groom were off in a shower of rice, kisses and merry cries.

Then quoth the maid of the daffodils to Dickie, "Do look at Joe and Ethel!"

There they stood on the top step, hand in hand, placidly and absently waving after the disappearing carriage with their disengaged hands. The other two members were clasped.

It was three interminable months before Harrington was permitted to announce a farewell dinner to his bachelor friends. When he reached the club on the memorable night a letter awaited him bearing the familiar foreign postmark of Mr. and Mrs. Blake's honeymooning nest. Over the signature of Madeleine Blake he read the following:

"Bless you, my children! Nothing could delight me more, especially when it's my own particular little pie. Joe the woman hater! Joe the celibate! Clarissa was already engaged, you know, so made a willing martyr on the altar of my schemes. And my Ethel had to play instead of standing by my side, where she belonged. If she had not—if you'd thought you belonged to her by custom, Joe—my beautiful girlie, instead of becoming the happy Mrs. Harrington shortly, would have shared the sad, sad fate of the daffodil maid."

"And thus," observed Harrington, with a charitable grin, "do some people flatter themselves."

Wanted It to Come Gradually.

One evening recently a well known writer received a check from a magazine which was a good deal larger than he had anticipated. The occurrence seemed worthy of a celebration; so, in company with a young artist, who had sometimes shared his dinner on a less prosperous occasion, he sought a restaurant noted for its expensive menu. With a luxurious shrug and with indifference to the cares of the world, he ordered an elaborate repast. His companion, being of the sex especially thrifty when dealing with household matters, begged him to be cautious. No, indeed, for that night he was Prince Rounitful.

At length it came time, as it always does with things both good and evil, for the reckoning.

"Waiter," drawled the host, "bring me my check. And, waiter, bring it very gradually."—New York Tribune.

The Death of Courtesy.

Courtesy lay dead.

On either side of her mangled form lay her sisters, Gallantry and Chivalry.

The fatal wounds in the breasts of each were so similar that there could be no doubt that they had all been made by the same weapon, wielded by the same ruthless hand.

Above them stood and wept their tottering parents, themselves ill undeath with the infirmities of old age. Respect and Veneration.

When Coroner Observation arose from a careful inspection of the three dead forms he brushed the soil from his knees and said to Policeman Shame, who stood close by:

"Make no delay in arresting the Modern Street Car on suspicion. It is my firm belief that he is guilty of all three of these cold blooded murders."—Baltimore American.

FEAST OF THE WHALE

AN ESKIMO BANQUET THAT MAY LAST A WHOLE DAY.

Incident of the Social Life Among the Natives of Arctic Alaska After the Hunting Season Is Over—The Return of the Fleet to Shore.

Writing of the industrial and social methods and customs of the Eskimos of arctic Alaska, Edward A. McIlhenny, in the Century, says:

The principal occupation of these Eskimos (of arctic Alaska) during the spring is the hunting of the bow head whale in the leads, or open water, and among the floe ice of the Arctic ocean. The taking of a whale is always a time of great rejoicing with these people, for it means not only an abundance of food and fuel, but a large amount of valuable trading material.

After the whaling season is over the boats which have been used in the chase are gathered on the leads between the pack and shore ice, which is often some miles from shore, at the foot of some road that has been cut through the rough ice from the land to the water. The most successful boat's crew, with their umiak (a whaling boat covered with skins), takes the lead, followed by the other boats in the order of their success. The harpoons, floats, paddles and everything pertaining to the chase of the whale are placed in their respective positions. The umiak is then placed on a flat ivory runnery sled and lashed firmly in place. The owner, who is called omelle (headman), stands on the ice at the right hand side of the bow; the boat steerer stands at the stern and the paddlers stand at their respective places along the sides of the boat. When all is ready the omelle gives the word to go forward, and each of the crew slips over his shoulder a broad breast strap of seal skin, which is attached to a short line made fast to the thwart of the boat. When all is ready the boat is pulled forward a few lengths and the next boat in order goes through the same form, moving on in its turn until all the umiaks are strung out in a long line on the grounded ice ready for their return to land.

At a signal from the head boat all move forward, chanting weird songs of the goodness and power of the whale, for one of the superstitions of these people is that whenever working on any object to be used in whaling or doing anything connected with whaling they must constantly extol the merits of this great animal.

Long before the boats reach shore the entire population left in the village—men, women, children and dogs—congregate on the beach to welcome the home comers. When the first boat nears land it is brought to a halt a few feet from the shore line, and its tallisman, which is always carried in a little pouch in the bow and may be a wolf's head, the head of a raven, iron pyrites or any odd thing, is lifted out by the omelle and held in his right hand toward the shore, where stands the chief medicine man of the tribe, who pours over it a little fresh water to refresh it and thank it for the benefits given, if the boat has secured a whale, or, if the boat has not been lucky, to appease any slight that may have been put upon the talisman, in the hope that it will give them better luck in the future.

After reaching shore a day or possibly two may be given for preparation, and then the great feast begins. Each successful boat owner, beginning with the one whose boat secured the most whales, gives a feast, to which he invites all the members of the tribe and any other people who may be in the village. First a wind break of umiaks, sails or skins is built to act as a shelter against the chilly blasts of the polar winds. It is placed in the form of a large circle if enough material can be secured, in the center of which a walrus hide is placed on the ground, and to its four corners are tied long ropes, which are passed over tripods placed about twenty-five feet from the skin. The ends of the ropes are then drawn tight and made fast with stout stakes driven into the ground, thus raising the skin about four feet. The skin thus becomes a platform some eight or ten feet square, which serves as a sort of movable stage on which the young women dance.

The feast usually begins at the time when the sun reaches a due western point, about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, for during the eighty days of summer at Otkavie the sun never sets, and, being without timepieces, the Eskimos mark their time by the position of the sun while it is visible and by the moon and stars when the sun has gone for the long arctic night. These feasts sometimes last twenty-four hours.

He Smoked.

A very pretty girl with a well defined air of knowing her way about tripped into a day coach of a train bound for Washington at Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon. Every window seat was occupied. The girl walked half way down the car and with obvious disappointment took the best seat that offered. A large, supercilious looking man already occupied half of it. He held his breath long enough to make room for the girl, and she squeezed in. Then he settled himself again and appeared to swell out in every direction. The girl cast longing glances at the window, but the man's huge bulk and open newspaper cut off her view. The girl fidgeted. The man spread himself more and more. Full three-quarters of the seat he filled to overflowing. The girl set her teeth. Thirty miles spun by. The girl could endure it no longer. She turned her face to him.

"Excuse me," she said distinctly, "but don't you ever smoke?"

Two minutes later the whole seat was hers.—Washington Post.
